SCORE Makes a Difference

SCORE Bears Results for Vermont Teddy Bear

Vermont Teddy Bear Company's ads for “BearGrams” are familiar to anyone who listens to radio. But after early success, founder John Sortino struggled to maintain the company's momentum during the economic recession of the mid-eighties. SCORE counselors helped him refine and expand his advertising, as well as reengineer his manufacturing process. By the early 1990s, Vermont Teddy Bear was a national phenomenon and the company made the Inc. magazine list of fastest-growing companies in 1994.

“It was comforting to have SCORE come in and work with me, especially early on when I was pretty much on my own. SCORE has wonderful counselors who were more than willing to spend time with me.”

Vera Bradley Designs Stitches Up a Multi-Million Dollar Business

It's a long way from the basement to the big time, but Barbara Baekgaard and Patricia Miller have taken their line of women's luggage, accessories, and clothing from trunk sales in their homes to more than 3,000 retailers around the globe. As demand grew, they found their match in SCORE counselor George Cook, who applied his background in corporate finance to help them develop a business plan and establish bookkeeping and inventory procedures. In just three years, sales topped $1 million.

“We were very lucky to connect with somebody whose business expertise complemented our creativity. I'm sure SCORE does that for everybody. SCORE is a fantastic organization.”

Patricia Miller, Co-founder, Vera Bradley Designs, Inc.

Little Scoops Turns Cool Idea into Hot Business

Fun parties for kids with games, dancing, and sundaes in a fifties-style ice cream parlor. No planning, set-up or clean-up for mom and dad. That was the vision Michelle Violetto had for Little Scoops. Five years later, she and partner Tanya Ehrlich have hosted hundreds of parties and opened nine more locations. SCORE counselors Peter Gordy and Marty Kahn helped them develop a business plan, set up finances and evaluate locations for the first Little Scoops shop, which opened in 2002. Today, Violetto and Ehrlich are preparing to franchise Little Scoops nationwide, and Entrepreneur magazine named Little Scoops one of its “Hot New Franchises for 2005.”

“Many of our female friends have started their own businesses. We refer them all to SCORE. It's a great organization.”

Michelle Violetto, Founder, Little Scoops

Counselors to America's Small Business

Q: What is SCORE?

A: For more than 40 years, SCORE “Counselors to America’s Small Business” has been the premier, free business counseling and advice service in the United States. SCORE is a nonprofit association with 389 offices nationwide and more than 10,500 working and retired business professionals who volunteer to help a new generation of entrepreneurs.

Q: How does SCORE help small businesses?

A: SCORE’s expert counselors provide business advice on everything from how to write a business plan, to cash flow management, to growing your existing business. Business owners can access SCORE counseling services via face-to-face sessions or online at www.score.org. SCORE also offers business training workshops and seminars on a range of topics at local SCORE offices.

Q: Are SCORE’s services free?

A: SCORE’s business counseling services are offered at no cost as a community service. Workshop and seminar fees generally range from $20–$75.

Q: Does SCORE work with the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA)?

A: Yes. As a resource partner, SCORE operates in cooperation with the SBA to provide entrepreneurs with information vital to their success, including counseling on loans and financial options, business planning, marketing strategies, product development and more.

Q: Who are SCORE counselors?

A: SCORE counselors offer real-world experience gained from owning their own business or serving in management positions for companies like McDonnell Douglas, Hewlett-Packard, Procter & Gamble and General Electric. Counselors may be retired or working business owners, business executives or operations managers. All SCORE counselors are volunteers who receive specialized training by the association.

Q: Does SCORE offer resources online?

A: Yes. SCORE provides award-winning business resources for entrepreneurs online at www.score.org. With more than 2,000 pages of content, this how-to site provides practical solutions and suggestions on a wide variety of business issues. Ask SCORE is a free online service for entrepreneurs to submit questions to a SCORE online counselor. Questions can be submitted 24/7 and answers come within 48 hours.

Q: How can entrepreneurs contact SCORE for business advice?

A: Business owners can call 1-800/634-0245 and ask for the phone number of their local SCORE office. Or they can visit www.score.org to search for a counselor by specialty who can provide online assistance. Business owners also can email contact.score@sba.gov with their city and state, and SCORE will respond with local contact information.
